58 PCT. OF TOBACCO JR. CLUB BANQUET HARVESTED SOUND SET FOR NOV. 30

Estimate Crop to be 49 Million Pounds.—Rock County's Crop 50% Good.

An accurate survey made through the Co-operative Crop and Livestock reporting service for Wisconsin, shows that 58 percent of the tobacco acreage in Wisconsin has been harvested without frost damage and with heavy yields.

The early frost of September 12 and 13 injured 42 percent of the crop, causing damaged quality, lighter yields and an entire abandonment of 14 percent of the state's acreage without being harvested. That the early frost, Wisconsin looked good to have its most profitable tobacco crop, both in quantity and quality.

Of the leading tobacco counties, Vernon county showed 61 percent of the acreage before the frost; Rock, 57 percent; Crawford, 72 percent; Dane and Columbia counties, both heavy producers of the leaf, were fortunate, with only about 50 percent of the crop cut before the freeze.

Rock county growers left the smallest acreage unharvested—only five acres being abandoned. The Dane county abandoned 12 percent, while in Vernon county the frost damage was so severe that 23 percent was left unharvested.

Growers of heavy yields of sound tobacco, the average for the state being 1,400 pounds to the acre. Frosted tobacco yielded 1,030 pounds on average. Dane county growers report an average yield of 1,470 pounds of unfrosted tobacco, and 1,120 pounds of damaged leaf. Growers report conditions in the state, and yields in Vernon and Crawford counties are about 200 pounds less than in Dane and Rock counties.

In spite of the frost, this year's crop is about three million pounds larger than last year—a short crop. A larger acreage, with an average yield of 1,110 pounds, indicates a crop of approximately 43,000,000 pounds for Wisconsin.

PUREBRED CATTLE SALES SHOW BETTER PRICES THIS YEAR

Sale prices of purebred dairy cattle were relatively higher in 1922 than any other kind of purebred animals, according to a recent survey by the United States department of agriculture. Although prices were not high compared with the peak reached in 1920, the average sale price for purebred dairy cattle was in good demand.

Reports were received on a total of 7,597 dairy animals representing five breeds: Guernsey, 2,169; Holstein, 2,796; Ayrshire, 509; Brown Swiss, 127; Jersey, 1,975. Of the animals reported, 3,187, or nearly one-half, sold for more than $150 each. The number of animals of each breed in this price range was: Ayrshire, 132; Brown Swiss, 35; Guernsey, 979; Holstein, 1,068; Jersey, 920.

Average prices received by breeders, including all sales and both sexes at both private and auction sales, were: Ayrshire, $181.73; Brown Swiss, $123.62; Guernsey, $223.36; Holstein, $187.15; Jersey, $116.00. All breeds shown were reported were disposed of at private sale. The data show that difference in prices received by the two sales methods was so small that in 1922 heavy auction sales expenses were not justified, the department says.

Highest prices by breed were: Ayrshire, $2,000; Brown Swiss, $300; Guernsey, $500; Holstein, $5,000; Jersey, $20.

INSTITUTE WORKERS STARTING MEETINGS

Institute workers of the Wisconsin college of agriculture will fire the opening gun of the 1923 season on Nov. 13, when four institutes will get under way. Although the institute season is not in full swing in the southern counties of the state until January, the northern counties will be served in the late fall before the extreme weather prevents attendance.

Approximately 200 meetings will be held this winter, E. L. Luther, who supervises this work, declares. The demand for institutes is greater than ever this year, many new communities having made applications to bring the workers to their towns. The staff of workers numbers 20 in all.

In the southern part of the state the use of lime, growing of alfalfa, the marketing of cheese and butter, livestock, and women's problems will be presented. A slight variation will be shown in the highly developed communities of the north, and emphasis will be placed on general farming topics and the solution of dairy farming difficulties.

SAVE FOREST PARKS URGES JOHN JONES, JR.

Madison—John J. Jones, Jr., director of the Wisconsin state co-operative enterprise among farmers in every northern Wisconsin community as the first step toward standardization and later federation for orderly marketing of products in this new country," said John D. Jones, Jr., commissioner of agriculture, after visiting a score of hustling communities in northern counties. "As the first step toward a wooded 40-acre tract in every community as a monument to those who are now clearing up the debris left by the lumbermen, and the future generations may know the reason from which this great empire was made.

"Community life must have a center and what had been more apparent in the north country than a grove of native timber located where possible on a stream or lake where during the summer months the community's co-operative gathering center held under conditions which never again can prevail after the entire locality has been denuded. This common meeting place for the community co-operative effort should be public property, and I believe that in every district there is a public spirited party far-sighted enough to donate for public purposes a suitable tract of land.

"Under the terms of the rural planning law which is administered by the Wisconsin college of agriculture, we will be glad to extend our assistance in bringing about the establishment of such a community gathering place."

TESTS SHOW SPRAY ON "SPUDS" PAYS

Experiments Conducted in Several Counties on Many Varieties of Potatoes.

That it pays to spray potatoes with Bordeaux mixture to prevent damage from the potato leafhopper even in seasons when the leafhopper damage is slight, is shown by the results of the potato spraying demonstration plots this season. The results were reported by S. B. Fracker, state entomologist, at the meeting of the state potato growers association at Stevens Point.

These demonstration plots, consisting of two acres each, were located in Forest, Oneida, Waupaca and Portage counties. They were parts of the fields of large potato producers and in every case the Bordeaux-sprayed fields showed an increase in yield over those which were sprayed with chemicals alone. The demonstrations were conducted jointly by E. L. Chambers, assistant entomologist of the Wisconsin department of agriculture and program director of the department of economic entomology of the agricultural experiment station.

Increased Yield

Potatoes of the Triumph variety at Blacksville in Forest county showed an increase as a result of the Bordeaux mixture spraying of 16 bushels per acre, the sprayed spot yielding 153 bushels, the unsprayed 142. At Blacksville in Oneida county, the Bordeaux-sprayed plots yielded 200 bushels of Green Mountains per acre, while those sprayed only with poison yielded 180 bushels. At Blacksville in Portage county, when sprayed with the Bordeaux yield 230 bushels per acre as against 220 when the poison alone was used, an increase of 60 bushels per acre for the Bordeaux-sprayed plot.

Damage by Frost

The differences in the case of the new Triumph variety were even more marked, although the early planted field at Amherst showed an increase of 51 bushels per acre (from 147 to 198) as a result of Bordeaux spraying. On the other hand, the late planted Rurala at Viola, in Waupaca county, showed an increase of only four bushels per acre.

In all cases the total yield was reduced by the early frosts so that the yields of both Bordeaux-sprayed and unsprayed potatoes are much less than last year. The increase in yield is greater than was anticipated by the department, as the leafhopper was less injurious and arrived later this year than it has for the past five years.

great brotherhood, we saw the picture destroyed and in 24 hours the world was again back in the chaos of hatred.

Equal Rights to All

"This government has failed in the great principle of equality to which it stands if it does not afford an equal opportunity to the poorest citizen in developing to its fullest capacity.

"We decided equality by the Civil war. It was a war for humanity.

"After the abuse of the Cubans and the insult to our flag, this country said, 'This thing must stop.' We agreed it was right. If we were right in interfering to save the life of Cuba, at our doorstep, we were right when we crossed the Atlantic to aid humanity.

In referring to the Civil war veterans, Mr. Wheelan said: "Their hearts are young because they stood for love of humanity in 1861. I find these men who offered themselves in the Spanish-American war are the same and in their hearts today is the same youthfulness of American citizenship. If I had to send a delegation to Europe to teach the ideals of American manhood, I would send the veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars.

"Unless a nation shall be true to the principles of fraternity and equality and liberty, it shall be destroyed. The spirit of love must rule."

115 at Banquet.

Veterans of three wars met in a social way for the first time in the history of the city at the high school at a supper preceding the public Armistice day program held in the auditorium. While the number present was smaller than planned, the cafeteria where the supper was served by the women of the various patriotic organizations was well filled. One hundred and fifteen registered.

The feature of the program for the service men was the address by Commander J. P. Carlo of the Grand Army. The roll call of Janesville sold star men by J. W. Gross, commander of the local American Legion, and the address of Hon. Charles E. Wheelan, Madison, featured the public program.

Honor to Carlo.

As Commander Carlo arose to speak, everyone in the room stood and remained so until he had begun his talk. He recalled Civil war days in his address, saying, "My mind goes back to April, 1865, when General Lee surrendered. How we shouted for 'How many are here tonight who remember when Lee surrendered?' Only the handful of veterans of the Civil war held up their hands.

"Never in the history of my life have I attended such a meeting," he continued. "There was an object in bringing together these men. That was to unite three armies in this celebration of Armistice day."

Women Not Forgotten.

In reference to the Civil war, Mr. Carlo said: "That war drained our nation as no war has ever done before in the history of the world. Twelve per cent of the men of Wisconsin were in the service.

"Blessed be the God that I love it for what it represents. You can't whip a Yankee, you can't whip this nation," said Mr. Carlo in conclusion of his energetic address. The attendance was received by enthusiastic applause. He was urged to again take the floor.

It had not been for the loyal women who gathered round the side and said: "Take your gun and go, John, and I'll take the hood" no war could ever have been won," Mr. Carlo declared. "When you have good backing and know that those who love you are back of you, then can we go forward."

Mr. Carlo, director of City Government, said: "I think we have one of the best governments that our city has ever had and we are looking to that government to clean up some of the dirt holes left by the former government," was a statement made during Mr. Carlo's address. "We have one of the best newspapers in the state. It gives us the news and stands for the principles of citizenship such as we favor. Janesville lacks but one thing to make it the head city of the state and of the United States. We ought to build a $150,000 memorial hall for the Civil war, the Spanish war and the World war veterans."

During the meeting there was informal singing of some of the old war songs, such as "Long, Long

CITY HAS $70,000 IN MOTOR OUTFITS

Manager Seeks Insurance on 26 Cars, Trucks and Tractors.

Janesville has 26 pieces of motor driven equipment, including automobiles, trucks and tractors, according to figures compiled by City Clerk E. J. Sarrick for insurance agents. The information to be used by them in submitting bids for covering the machines on fire and liability insurance. The city manager believes a saving can be effected by having a blanket policy to cover all 26 vehicles, and is asking for prices on this basis. It is estimated the city has close to $70,000 invested in their motor equipment.

No protection against theft is planned as the manager does not think it likely that any one will steal away with one of the fire trucks or the new street sweeper.

The equipment record shows the fire department has 6 pieces of motor driven apparatus; the police department, 17; the street department, 12; and the water department, 3; as follows:

Fire department—Two American La France trucks, one Seagrave truck, one Mitchell car, Buick and Oldsmobile roadsters.

Police—Cadillac ambulance-patrol, three Chevrolet touring cars, and one Harley Davidson motorcycle.

Street—Three Ford roadsters, one Samson 3-ton truck, one White 2-ton truck, two Fordson tractor loaders, one Elgin sweeper, one Delineator flusher and three Chevrolet trucks.

Water—One Samson 15-ton truck, one Ford converted roadster, one Chevrolet light delivery truck.

PRINCIPLES WILL WIN, SAYS WILSON

Former President, Bowed by Illness, Greets Throng Before Residence.

(By Associated Press)

Washington—A reaffirmation in the triumph of the principles for which he has stood, was spoken by Woodrow Wilson to a throng of admirers on an armistice day pilgrimage yesterday to his home here.

"I am not one of those," he declared, "that have the least anxiety about the triumph of the principles I have stood for."

"I have seen fools resist providence before and I have seen their destruction, as will come upon these again—utter destruction and contempt. That we shall prevail is as sure as that God reigns."

Addresses Thousands

A cheering throng of thousands packed the street and all nearby vacant space when Mr. Wilson appeared on the portico of his "2" street residence to deliver his second address in less than 24 hours and the third he has made since leaving the White House.

A little bent with his four years of illness, he stood with bowed head, after waving a response to the outburst of applause which greeted him, while Senator Carter Glass of Virginia delivered the address on behalf of the visitors.

Follows a Little

Although uttering a little once or twice, Mr. Wilson stood unassisted beside Senator Glass while he delivered the first portion of his address, in which he gave to the men of whom he was "proud to remember" he had been commander in chief the credit of making the "armistice possible."

Predicting a new turn in the nation's foreign policy, Senator Glass, in his address, declared "we shall be compelled to put aside the covert and feeble civilities of an 'unofficial' observer to reveal our identity as a nation which means openly to take its part and give direction to things that involve the security and happiness of all mankind."

HE CALLS US NATION OF COWARDS OVER RADIO

Washington—Woodrow Wilson, addressing the American people directly, Saturday night, for the first time since he left the White House, declared America's attitude after the World war was "deeply ignoble, cowardly and dishonorable."

France and Italy, Mr. Wilson also declared in a discussion of world affairs, have made "waste paper of the treaty of Versailles."

The former president said the only way in which the United States could show its true appreciation of the significance of Armistice day was by resolving to put self interest away and to formulate an act upon the highest ideals of international policy.

Mr. Wilson spoke exactly five minutes into a radio instrument at his home here and his message was broadcast to every section of the country.

Text of Address

Mr. Wilson's address follows: "The anniversary of Armistice day should stir us to great exaltation of spirit because of the proud recollection that it was our day."

"A day, which, above all these early days of never to be forgotten November, lifted the world to the high levels of vision and achievement upon which the great war for democracy and right was fought and won, although the stimulating memories of that happy time of triumph are forever marred and embittered for us by the shameful fact that when the victory was won—won, he remembered, chiefly by the indomitable spirit and valiant sacrifices of our own immortal soldiers—we turned our backs upon our associates, refused to bear any responsible part in the administration of peace, and the firm and permanent establishment of the results of the war won at so terrible a cost of life and treasure, and withdrew into a sullen and selfish isolation which is deeply ignoble, because manifestly cowardly and dishonorable."

Retrieve Fatal Error

"This must always be a source of deep mortification to us, and shall inevitably be forced by the moral obligations of freedom and honor to retrieve that fatal error and assume once more the roll of courage, self-respect and helpfulness which every true American must wish to believe to be our true part in the affairs of the world."

"That we should have thus done a great wrong to civilization, at one of the most critical turning points in the history of mankind, in the more to be deplored because every anxious year that has followed has made the need for such services as we might have rendered more and more manifest and more and more pressing, as demoralizing circumstances which we might have controlled have gone from bad to worse until now, as if to furnish a sort of sinister climax, France and Italy because of the Versailles treaty, the whole field of international relationship is in perilous confusion."

"The affairs of the world can be set straight only by the firmest and most determined exhibition of the will to lead and make the right prevail."

What Is Meaning of the Word "Putsch"?

The word "putsch," used in Associated Press dispatches in connection with disturbances occurring in Munich, capital of Bavaria, this week is a German term meaning an uprising that is unsuccessful, according to the Rev. E. A. L. Treu, pastor of St. Paul's church, Janesville.

"It means an uprising that is not well planned or developed, therefore one that is unsuccessful—in short, a small uprising that is soon quelled," the Rev. Mr. Treu explained.

The Joys

Of whiter, cleaner teeth
Let this test reveal them

Here is a way which has brought to millions prettier teeth and safer. You will never go without its benefits when once you find them out. Accept the test we offer. Watch the results for a few days. They will be a revelation.

By fighting film

The results come by fighting film on teeth—that vicious film you feel. Under old methods, much of that film resists the tooth brush, clings and stays.

Soon the film discolors, then forms dingy coats, so white teeth lose their beauty.

Most tooth troubles are also due to film. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Few people, in old-way brushing, escape the film-caused troubles.

Ways of escape
Dental science has now found two effective film combatants. One acts to disintegrate the film, one to remove it without harmful scouring. Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Careful people of some 50 nations have adopted this tooth paste, largely by dental advice.

Pepsodent meets the new-day requirements, based on modern research. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant.

Those are Nature's agents for neutralizing acids, and digesting starch deposits. Pepsodent gives them manifold effect, while old ways reduced their power. Thus it brings new cleanliness, new protection, without using harmful grit.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the vicious film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will be surprised and delighted. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use film combatant which contains harsh grit.

RECORDS BROKEN

AT CONFERENCE

Attendance Big at Older Boys' and Girls' Sessions at Beloit.

The state Sunday school conferences for older boys and girls held sessions in Beloit from Friday afternoon to Sunday night had the largest registration of any similar conferences held in Wisconsin this year. Registered delegates totaled an entire county association, 22 had registered from nearby points who did not register as delegates. Of the 41 Sunday schools belonging to the Beloit county association, 22 had registered delegates in attendance. Miss Mary Barker and her entire Sunday school class of girls drove to Beloit for the conference. Sunday school and church services Sunday forenoon. Miss Mildred Weaver drove down for the same services with a group of girls from the Ruth Circle, First Christian church.

Miss Esther Hild took the leading part in the pageant presented at the conference Saturday night. Officers were elected Sunday afternoon as follows:

Older Boys' Conference—President, Emil Owen, Neenah; vice-president, Charles Keller, Beloit; secretary, Peter Koley, Park Falls.

Older Girls' Conference—President, Miss Winifred Cheney, Beloit; vice-president, Miss Alice Shephard, Kenosha; secretary, Miss Gladys Palmer, Kenosha.

From Southern Wisconsin Beloit had the largest registration of local delegates that any conference city has had since the state conferences for older boys and girls were inaugurated ten years ago. Registered Beloit young people numbered 127. Registered delegates from other points in southern Wisconsin were as follows:

Edgerton—Misses Carol Marsden, Lucile and Mary Mer, Dorothy Brown, Edward Groth, Hazel Hart, Carolyn Beiderman, Grace Morrison, Gladys Buchanan, Ellen Hussey, Marcelle Fall, Constance Livick, Leon Snelling, Rosamond.

100 WAYS To Make Money
By BILLY WINNER
If I Were a Traffic Manager—

AND were making a shipment to New York, or Ohio, or any place, and the shipment took up only half of the car, I could get some one else to take the other half by advertising in the Janesville Gazette Classified Section.

Or, if I had only one crate to send, I could include it in someone else's cargo going to the same destination.

In this way the money I could save on freight throughout the year would amount to quite a sizeable sum.

I'd place my Want Ad in the Janesville Gazette because a Want Ad in the Janesville Gazette gets results. I'd want business men to read my Ad—and everybody knows that business men read the Want Ads in the Janesville Gazette.

The Step on the Stair

The police knew his whereabouts but as it was my special wish to avoid the complication of their presence, this afforded me small help. Mr. Miller was my man. He must have Edgar's address or how could he have made an appointment with him. It was for me to get into communication with him.

Turning up his name in the telephone book, I found that he lived in Newark. Calling him up I learned that he was at home and willing to talk to me. "Then," I told him my name and asked him how his child was, and, on hearing that she was better, inquired when he would be at his office. "A moment," he said, "in my impatience, was a very late hour and driven to risk all, rather than lose a possible advantage. I told him of my mistake and he had made, he in giving me a letter, a package, etc., belonging to me. I now thought to my cousin of the same name, and assuming him that had not been my cousin, I asked for my cousin's address that I might immediately deliver them.

Well, that flooded him for the moment, judging from the expletive which reached my ear. No one could be ignorant of what my name stood for with the mass of people. He had blundered, and I was extremely and seemed to be well aware of it. But he was a man of the world and soon was explanatory and apologizing for his mistake. He had never seen my cousin, and, being in some disorder of mind at the time, had been misled by a certain family resemblance I bore to the other Edgar, who was presented to the public in the newspapers. Would I pardon him, and, above all, ask my cousin to pardon him, without my giving me the name of the hotel where Edgar was to be found. "Thanking him, I hung up the receiver, put on my hat and went out. I had not far to go; the steps I took were few, but my thoughts were many. In what mood should I find my cousin? Was I doing a foolish thing?—a wrong thing?—a dangerous thing? What would be its upshot?

Knowing that I was simply weakening myself by this anticipatory holding of an interview which might take a very different course from any I was likely to imagine, I yet continued to put questions and answers them in my mind till my arrival at the hotel I was seeking put a sudden end to them. And well it might; for now the question was how to get speech with him. I would not send up my name, which as you will remember was the same as his; nor would I send up a false one. Yet I must see him in his room. How was this to be done?

TODAY'S RECIPES
Farmer's Apple Pie—Make a rich soft biscuit dough, spread out in a large pan, cover with a double layer of quartered apples; sweeten with nutmeg and dot with butter. Bake until apples are done. Cut in squares and serve with lemon sauce, either hot or cold.
Lemon Sauce—One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one egg beaten light and one juice of one lemon. Mix sugar and butter, add one-half cup boiling water, let thicken in a bowl set in boiling water.

USES FOR COCONUT
Sprinkle coconut in the griddle cake batter to add a new flavor.
Sprinkle coconut on plain biscuit dough. This makes a new supper or luncheon bread.
Sprinkle coconut on fancy sauce before pouring over cottage pudding.
Sprinkle coconut on plain cake and cookies.

Sprinkle coconut over banana salad instead of customary nuts.
Sprinkle coconut over orange marmalade on saladers. This makes an afternoon tea dainty.
Sprinkle coconut over meringues for puddings and pies.
Sprinkle coconut on all cream pies.

Sprinkle coconut on chocolate sauce and serve with plain pudding or vanilla ice cream.
Sprinkle coconut on fruit salads to add a novelty.

Sprinkle coconut on cream cheese and nut sandwiches.
Sprinkle coconut on soft chocolate frosting before spreading on cake.
Sprinkle coconut in the batter just before baking waffles.

ECONOMICAL TABLE PAD
To make an inexpensive table pad use large flour sacks similar to those sold by the flour company. The desired length, place wadding between and pin in place. Then stitch on the machine in rows about one-half inch apart. This makes a very serviceable pad that is easily laundered.

SUGGESTIONS
To Lengthen Muslin Curtains—An easy way to lengthen muslin curtains that have shrunk in washing is to purchase the necessary number of yards of muslin, cut it in a colored border, and you may choose a color to match the rest of the room. Turn a deep hem and stitch the fringe on the bottom of the curtain. You will find this will make your room so much more attractive, and at the same time is an inexpensive way of lengthening your curtains.

Pretty Hat Ornament—Crochet a grape leaf with this, such as is often seen in Irish crochet, using heavy black thread. The leaves form the ribs with steel beads, and sew on hat stuffing it out with cotton as you sew it on.

Stop that cough right now—

YOU can often prevent serious complications by giving Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey at once. Dr. Bell's loosens hard-packed mucus, soothes inflamed tissues and restores normal breathing. Made of just the medicines that up-to-date doctors recommend—combined with the old-time favorite, pine-tar honey. Children like its pleasant taste.

All druggists. Be sure to get the genuine.

Importance on your clothes. The frantically men will naturally judge you by your general appearance, but they will be more interested in the girl "John" intends to marry than in the clothes she wears.

"John" will introduce you to the people in the receiving line. Acknowledge the introductions by repeating the names of the various people. Upon leaving express your pleasure of the evening to one or two who have been in the receiving line, and also tell "John" how much you have enjoyed the occasion. Be sure to be friendly to the chaperones. Unfortunately they are sadly neglected on many occasions of this day and age.

EXCESSIVE PERSPIRATION.

A great many women who have been suffering from excessive perspiration all the summer, are writing to ask me why the same condition exists although cold weather has started.

Excessive perspiration is due often to nervousness, sometimes to poor health, and most frequently to local unhealthiness of the skin. I am almost sure to add that it is often due to insufficient bathing, for I still remember an indignant answer I once received in reply to a letter suggesting that as a reason. Nevertheless it is true that when the pores of the skin are not kept free through frequent bathing an unhealthy condition results with consequent excessive or odorous perspiration.

Most people perspire most freely in the arm pits. A very warm bath and a free lather of soap once a day will probably cure this condition in a week. The generous use of plain unscented talcum powder will help, because it will keep the skin cool. Shaving under the arm pits or using a depilatory will also help because it will keep the arm pits cool. And if these measures fail try the following formula:

Epsom Salts 3 ounces
Water 4 pints
Mix these and let them stand overnight, strain and add 4 ounces of the best quality hair rum.

This will stop excessive perspiration but not all perspiration, and a certain amount is necessary. This will promote a healthy activity of the skin, and it will neutralize any disagreeable odour. It is perfectly harmless, and can be wiped over the skin as often as you wish.

Terminating hands are generally the result of poor health. Sometimes, however, they are the result of nervous shock or excitement. There is nothing to do then but wash them with cool water.

glish you women." His friend replied, "You are a woman!"

The peoples of the Ruam-Urundi region are the Wahunu, and they have neither the prowess nor the dignity of their giant neighbors. The Germans, who ruled this area before the war as a part of the German colonial empire, built a railroad building. Some of them are still there, but the rest ran away with as much ease as they could carry to make enemies' allies.

Monarch Barbaric but Dignified

While the Germans were in control of the area, which has since remained Ruanguyika, they were active in nearly all parts of it except in this far northwest corner. They felt that to depose the sultana of the Ruanda and the Urundi re-dicks. The courtiers wore no clothes but wore their ornaments. The women from their waists were suspended strings of skins and hides, around their necks were droplets of banana-hemp on which were hung an assortment of ornaments, and across their backs they had a comb run from the head to the tail. To this comb was anchored a pearl string that lay across their foreheads.

"The heception was similar to that accorded the sultan's chief, who find frequent opportunity to bring his subjects to him on all occasions the native banana beer flows most freely and the beating of gongs summons the court to festivities which grow till the night when another day marks their cessation."
